NOT ALWAYS A MAN'S WORLD SAYS MRS. CLAUS

Almost every little boy or girl dreams of sitting on the knee of Santa when Christmas rolls around. But how many think of Mrs. Santa Claus who helps make toys and pack them in the sleigh for Santa? A group of boys and girls from the Glenora elementary school had a visit from Mrs. Claus Tuesday after she made the trip all the way from the North Pole to wish them a "Merry Christmas" from Santa. Last year the Parent Teacher Association wrote to Mrs. Santa Claus and requested that she come to the school to give out presents. Mrs. Claus was so thrilled that when she was asked to come again she hesitated the fastest reindeer she had and was off. When Mrs. Claus arrived at the school, she sat down amongst a group of Grade 1 children and, assisted by two students from the school, Karen Cooper and Stephen Chandler, gave each child an orange. — (Courier Photo)

Wet-White Christmas Set For Southern Parts of B.C.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Christmas will be more wet than white, the weather forecaster told southern British Columbians Wednesday as they dug out from beneath some of the biggest snowbanks they can remember.

But the north, he said, will be white and cold as usual. For the South the weatherman predicted wet snow, sometimes mixed with rain. This he said would be the southern weather menu for the next two or three days—but he could be wrong he admitted.

The wet snow that has persisted in sticking around has given Lower Mainlanders a taste of how other Canadians spend their winters.

Christmas shoppers returned to Vancouver's still snow-clogged downtown area in a last minute rush.

in the southeastern Interior, snow forced closure of a 60-mile road between Creston and Salmon until further notice.

Chains or snow tires were required on all cars going out of the Lower Mainland over arterial routes into the Interior or to the East.

Aldergrove, a Fraser Valley centre, by Tuesday had recorded 33.5 inches of snow this month. The previous December record was 21.5 inches.

Melting weather is nowhere in sight for the central and northern Interior. Prince George area was forecast for a low of 20 below and a high of five below. Quesnel could expect 15 below and Smithers, in the Bulkley Valley, the same.

The north coast city of Prince Rupert, digging out of its worst snowfall in years, could expect zero and 15 degrees above in the next 24 hours, said the weatherman. But no more snow was forecast.

U.K. Rejects China's Proposal For Summit On Nuclear Ban

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has rejected China's proposal for a world summit conference to discuss the complete prohibition and destruction of nuclear weapons, it was announced today.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson in a reply to a proposal made by Chinese Premier Chou En-lai Oct. 17, said the reduction and elimination of nuclear weapons could only be realized through agreement on general and complete disarmament under effective international control.

Wilson's reply, handed to the Chinese diplomatic mission here Tuesday and published by the foreign office today, said the British government regretted that China felt it necessary to carry out a nuclear test.

"The action of the Chinese government will be widely regarded as contrary to the general desire that there should be no further spread of nuclear weapons," Wilson said.

Referring to the Chinese summit conference proposal, Wilson said he did not believe this proposal was the best way to make progress in present circumstances.

USAF Forsees Bright New Year With Giant Plane In Offing

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Air Force, heading into the New Year with bright prospects for a new giant plane that could carry 600 troops more than 6,000 miles without refuelling, will get a new commander Feb. 1.

Emerging from a meeting with President Johnson in Texas

Tuesday, Defence Secretary McNamara announced.

Gen. John McConnell, 56, will become the new chief of staff of the air force when Gen. Curtis LeMay retires Feb. 1. McConnell, now vice chief of staff of the air force, is a strategic warfare expert.

—The air force proposal for a start on blueprinting a plane so enormous as to dwarf the largest now flying has been approved by McNamara and Johnson.

Funds for beginning development of the USA will be included in the new military budget. Just to decide on the exact design, then design it, test it and build some experimental models will cost about $750,000. To build 58 such planes in a production program (which would constitute three squadrons) would cost about $1,000,000, in addition to the development.

McNamara, talking to reporters at Johnson City, Tex., seemed confident the first experimental model would be flying in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1968. A contract to begin actual development could come in the next six or seven months.

Nuclear Sub Fires Successful Polaris

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. nuclear submarine Von Steuben Tuesday launched a Polaris A-3 missile on a successful 2,100-mile flight to conclude the 1964 firing schedule at Cape Kennedy.

Red China Accuse U.S. Of Intrusion

TOKYO (AP)—China charged Tuesday that five U.S. warships "intruded" into its waters on six occasions during the week end. A New China news agency broadcast quoting a spokesman of the Chinese foreign ministry said the violations took place off the coast of Fukien province, southeast China.

Six Die In U.S. Storms

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—Torrential rains, whipped along on gale force winds, continued to sweep across four Pacific Northwest states today, imperiling scores of cities and towns and causing millions of dollars of damage.

Six persons have died in the two-day storm that forced at least 5,000 persons to flee before the flood waters of a dozen mountain rivers.

A helicopter with three U.S. Coast Guardsmen aboard is missing after evacuating 10 persons off an island in California's Eel River.

Federal, state, and local disaster units worked through the night in 65-mile-an-hour winds to complete evacuation of whole towns. The weather bureau predicted no letup today.

California's Governor Edmund Brown declared four northwestern counties disaster areas and appealed for federal assistance. Five other northern counties sent urgent pleas to the state for relief.

In Oregon, Governor Mark Hatfield placed the national guard on the alert.

Governor Grant Sawyer called out the Nevada national guard to help workmen sandbag shorefronts in downtown Reno as the Truckee River's flood waters spilled into the heart of town.

PUT ON DUTY

Idaho's national guardsmen were put on emergency duty by Governor Robert Smylie, and 50 men were sent to the beleaguered town of Bonanza in the southeastern part of the state.

San Diego, meanwhile, was hit by an earthquake causing panic in the downtown area and widespread, but minor damage.

The quake registered 5.7 on the Richter scale, which rates the largest shocks ever recorded at 8.8.

Four drownings were blamed on the storm in Oregon.

Mysterious Pair Sought Bail 'Fix'

Soviet Rocks Plan in UN

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Last minute Soviet objections threatened today to upset an expected agreement that would permit the UN General Assembly to reverse for the holidays without Soviet voting rights being challenged.

UN negotiators plunged into a new round of talks in the hope that the assembly still might be able to adjourn by tonight.

The assembly scheduled morning and afternoon sessions on the chance that agreement would be reached.

The difficulty was over a plan drafted by the 59-nation Afro-Asian group and modified by assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana and Secretary-General U Thant.

It proposed that UN members being the organization to solve South Viet Nam would have to contribute voluntarily to the fund that would not be considered as changing the basic position of any member.

Several had doubts

First word of the hitch came after a meeting of Soviet bloc delegations at UN headquarters. Several told reporters they had doubts about the plan and ruled out any immediate agreement.

Informed sources said the Soviet Union felt the plan did not go far enough in taking out the application of article 19.

provides that its countries will invoke article 19 of the UN charter, which says any member two years in arrears on assessments shall lose its assembly vote. The Soviet Union and six other Soviet bloc countries are in this category.

Sponsors of the plan had expressed belief that they had found a formula to avoid a showdown on the financial issue.

Lawyer Testifies At Probe On Ottawa's Scandal Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Montreal criminal lawyer Raymond Daoust repeated today that two mysterious persons he described as Monsieur X and Masson had claimed to have approached Pierre Lamontagne concerning bail for Lucien Rivard.

He was under cross-examination by Francois Chapados, counsel for a Guy Masson who has not been identified so far at the Dorion inquiry into charges of bribery and influence-peddling against federal ministerial aides made by Mr. Lamontagne.

Mr. Lamontagne is acting for the U.S. government in trying to extradite Rivard, in jail at Montreal, to Laredo, Tex., to face narcotics smuggling charges.

Mr. Daoust, Rivard's lawyer, said Mr. Rivard had told him July 20 that an unidentified person he has referred to as Monsieur X had met Lamontagne in Ottawa on or about that day.

He said Masson had told him the same thing in a telephone conversation from Hull, Que., or Eastview, a city adjacent to Ottawa.

Daoust said Mr. Lamontagne had never mentioned the name of Denis

"To the best of my recollection," Mr. Daoust replied. Mr. Daoust said he talked only one or two minutes with Masson from his Montreal office. He had put a fast end to the conversation when he found he was getting a false statement from Masson.

Mr. Chapados asked whether it was possible that he had reached Masson in Montreal.

Mr. Daoust said this was possible but it seemed to him the call had been long distance and he hadn't imagined Hull or Eastview.

It was also possible that Masson had called him instead of him calling Masson at the request of Mrs. Rivard.

Guy Guerin, counsel for Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, accused by Mr. Lamontagne of offering him a $25,000 bribe to grant bail for Rivard, asked whether Mr. Lamontagne had ever mentioned the name of Denis.

DIDN'T MENTION NAME

Mr. Daoust said Mr. Lamontagne had never mentioned the name to him at any time.

But Mr. Lamontagne had told him that he had been approached and had rejected an offer made to him in return for dropping opposition to bail.

Mr. Daoust said Mr. Lamontagne objected to bail for Rivard from the beginning—Rivard was arrested June 19—and that he is still objecting most forcefully.

The hearing was adjourned until later today.

Rusk Tells South Viet Nam Get On With Fighting Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Rusk urged feeding

factions in Saigon today to settle personal considerations and what he called lesser issues in the interest of getting on with the war against Communist guerrillas.

Rusk did not name any particular South Vietnamese leader but his remarks at a press conference came amid strong U.S. displeasure over moves by Saigon generals to purge the civilian leadership.

Rusk also said that lack of a unified civilian government in South Viet Nam would inevitably make it more difficult to handle certain types of U.S. aid. But he declined to go into detail on this or the larger question of what happens to the massive U.S. assistance program if there is no unified government.

On another subject, Rusk said Communist China is attempting to extend its domination into Southeast Asia and the Congo and has made these two areas the greatest danger points to world peace.

He gave full backing to U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, who has come under attack from South Viet Nam's commander-in-chief, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, for opposing Sunday's semi-coup by young generals.

As for Khanh's public criticisms of Taylor, Rusk said some of them might have been made in the heat of the moment. He said he found no widespread anti-American feeling elsewhere in South Viet Nam.

Russian Hockey Team Arrives Dead Beat For Western Tour

TRAIL (CP)—A weary and bedraggled Russian hockey team arrived here this morning after an all-night bus trip from Calgary.

The team immediately headed for bed to rest up for its game with the Western International Hockey League All-Stars tonight.

One player said the trip from Calgary between 5:30 p.m. and here—where they arrived almost 14 hours later—was equal to playing three games of hockey.

The unshaven players looked tired and hungry as they stepped from their chartered bus. Many had been awake since 8 a.m. Tuesday when the team got up for breakfast at Edmonton after defeating the Edmonton Oil Kings 7-5 in a game the night before.

The victory at Edmonton had kept the teams' perfect record on a cross-country tour intact. The game against the W.I.H.L. All-Stars tonight will be the last game of the tour.

The team officials ordered a "capital meal" for the players for 4 p.m. There was no mention of a practice before the game.

The bus was delayed by slides in the Crownest Pass through the Rocky Mountains and on the Kootenay Skyway in the Kootenay. There was a three-hour delay before one of the Crownest Pass slides was cleared and the bus had to wait two hours for a ferry which bypassed the skyway.

Malaysia Sends Troops, Police To Meet Indonesian Invasion

KUALA LUMPUR (CP)—Police declared a policy of complete non-resistance against the Indonesian invasion of the Borneo area, 150 miles which links the former British colony of Malaya, Singapore, of new findings by armed Indonesian and Sabah (North Borneo) forces in Malaysia.

Military sources said about 40 Sabah police have been ordered to meet Indonesian forces in the Borneo area. It said that Indonesian forces had taken control of at least 20 of the islands.

An official military communiqué said the Indonesians captured two villages but a third escaped and led security forces to the scene.

Borneo was the scene of the first Indonesian landing on the Malaysian Federation last August.

Indonesian President Sukarno today's raid was the seventh on south Malaya and Singapore since August. At least 300 Indonesians were known to have been involved in the previous landings.

Search Fails On B.C. Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—An intensive air-sea search has failed to turn up any sign of a missing lifeboat or three persons from the wrecked seiner Westerner in the Ocean Falls area, RCAF Search and Rescue said Tuesday night.

The air force said it was calling off the search and handing the case over to the RCMP.

The Westerner, a 36-footer missing since Saturday on a 27-mile trip from Ocean Falls to the Bella Bella Indian Reserve, was discovered wrecked Tuesday on Denny Island in Gwaihar Channel.

There was no sign of the three persons aboard, Butch Windsor, captain, Paul Gladstone and Nancy Campbell, or of a skiff the Westerner carried.

An air force helicopter and 12 boats scoured the channel without results, said a Search and Rescue spokesman.

The three missing persons were all reported in their early 20's. Ocean Falls is about 300 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Tiny Liberals "Vital" In U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—Liberal party leader Jo Grimond today urged his supporters to prepare for a possible general election in 1965.

In a special message to members of the minority party, he said:

"We are now playing for higher stakes in national politics."

"At bye-elections, at local government elections, very probably in a general election and in Parliament, all Liberals have to emphasize their decisive and distinctive role," he said.

The Liberals won nine of 630 seats in the House of Commons in the Oct. 15 general election, gaining an important role in view of the fact the Labor government was elected by only a four-seat margin.

Almost Whole Of Canada To Have White Christmas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Almost all of Canada will have a white Christmas this year as snow continues to fall on much of the country.

Even Vancouver, usually plagued by rain at this time of year, has been hit by a snowstorm which plugged many roads in the southern section of British Columbia. The city has already spent $27,000 over its $10,000 snow removal budget.

A storm dumped two feet of snow on Sydney, N.S. and varying amounts on New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

A snowstorm in western Quebec and eastern Ontario Tuesday resulted in a car-truck collision which claimed the lives of the five persons riding in the car in Lachine, a suburb of Montreal.

The same storm dropped about 1 1/2 inches of snow on Ottawa and left between two and four inches in Montreal.

The only section of Canada not hit by storms was south-central Ontario.

MORE SNOW EXPECTED
Montreal and Saskatchewan expect more snow today with temperatures moderating to 10 above in Winnipeg and zero in Regina.

The Pacific storm moved into southern and central Alberta Tuesday night, dumping five inches of snow on Lethbridge in 12 hours, three inches in Calgary and Medicine Hat and about two inches in Edmonton.

A cold snap that has already killed 500 cattle in northern Alberta was expected to continue. Temperatures in Alberta fell to about 15 below zero in the cities and lower in outlying areas. Winds up to 30 miles an hour caused drifting, compounding the work of snow removal crews.

Nine men stranded by a storm on Kwatsan Island, 30 miles north of Vancouver, were rescued Tuesday from a construction project by an RCMP helicopter.

Swedish Soldiers' Sentences Upheld
STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The Swedish Supreme Court Tuesday upheld sentences on two former officers of Sweden's United Nations peace-keeping force in Cyprus who admitted trying to smuggle arms to Turkish-Cypriots. The court confirmed that Helge Halmarsson and Lars Lannin each should serve eight months at hard labor and be dismissed from the army.

When W. R. Dynea, operator of Don and Bill's Barber shop at 1520 Ellis St., opened his shop door Tuesday at 8 a. m., three feet of debris covered his floor.

"The ceiling fell in," he said, "but we were back in business by 2:30 p. m. Three workmen, and three employees shoveled the plaster, insulation, and wood into the street. The fire department cooperation all around."

The one story building has a four to five foot space between the ceiling and the roof. The roof is intact. Cause of the accident is not known, nor is there any estimate of the damage.

"The occupants of the Phoenician cafe nearby, heard a noise at about 1:30 a. m. They did not investigate, but presumably this was what they heard."

"When Bernie Freedham, owner of the adjacent gift shop, arrived at work at 7 a. m., he saw the mess and the fire department was awakened."

The store is owned by Mr. Freedham and Carruthers and Meikle, but the ceiling was installed by the barber shop. "I think we are covered by insurance," Mr. Dynea said.

Canadian Heritage; Just What Is It?

During the past six months of flag debate we have been told very, very often that a new flag could mean we were turning our backs upon our heritage. We were told this so often that some of us began to wonder just what our heritage is. And how any symbolic flag could affect it.

It seems to this newspaper that the Canadian heritage is the wind whispering through a field of ripening grain. It is the magic of the Rockies when the moon jewels their shining crests. It is the curling serpentine of the Slave across the north-west tundra and a landing strip cut through virgin bush beside a minuscule settlement.

It is the hum of the assembly line in a bustling city, the roll of a drum on the swell of the Grand Banks, the sound of a combine on the flat prairie, the harsh signal for the cage in a mine-shaft, the cry of "Tim-berrrr!" in the forests of the Queen Charlottes. It is the broad belly of the grain carrier stepping down the Welland stairway and the silence of a great powerhouse harnessing a million wild horses.

It is the quick-spoken voice of France in the New World, the burr of a Scottish accent, an Irish that was lost in London and never found again, the halting speech of a newcomer from Eindhoven. It is the murmur of song slipping away from a Nova Scotia beach and wrinkles creasing the eye of a Newfoundland from gazing so long at the sea.

But it is more than the sum of all these. The Canadian heritage is the spirit of tolerance, for the Canadian is a man so diverse and complex in his origins that he could not have come this far—could never, indeed have become a Canadian—without tolerance for the views of other men had not been the beacon lighting his way.

Canadians have a phrase for it. We speak of our unity in diversity, and a fine phrase it is. It spells out that we have learned how to get along with our differences. That was the first lesson we learned, almost a century ago, when the Canadian nation was born.

It was not an easy lesson. A cynic could argue that we came together as a people less out of love for each other than for fear of what might happen to us if we did not join hands.

Some part of that would be true. There were men who thought of nothing but the dollars to be made by building railroads to tie the pieces of a new country together. There were others who would have let it all go, to cast our lot with the republic next door. But they were not the men who met at Quebec to hammer out the resolution which became the foundation of Confederation. They were not the likes of Macdonald, Brown, McGee and Howe, nor of George Cartier. They were not the men from the tiny settlements of the Pacific who led British Columbia into the nation when it was less than five years old. And they were not the Canadian people, no matter what mother tongue a man spoke.

The Great Plains filled in. The frontier moved north. The freedoms grew. The responsibilities deepened. A nation emerged.

There were times when it seemed it could not happen. If the differences between Canadian and Canadian cut too deep. But always when there were differences there were men determined to heal them, or at least to find accommodations and leave the final healing to Time. And Time always healed us. So perhaps it could be said, too, that the Canadian heritage is patience, patience with each other and faith in the healing power of time. Every great leader this nation has known has possessed the art of patience and, with patience, faith. And because of patience, we have come a great way in a short time.

The Canadian heritage is his freedom, and the responsibility to safeguard it. It has never been enough for a man to think of his own freedom, or his own concept of what freedom is, and to condemn or disdain another's. It is this estimate of freedom, this tolerance, this recognition of our own unity in diversity, which has made us a free people, perhaps of all men the most free. That is said with pride, but it is also said in humility.

Freedom has never been a man's right to do as he wishes. It is not economic, nor political, nor the right to worship as one sees fit. It is in some degree each. But it is none of them unless the sense of responsibility is there, too—the responsibility to respect and safeguard the rights of every other member of the brotherhood.

Freedom is the rule of law, and what we call law's due process. It is never the right to use power against the powerless. It cannot exist in a climate of oppression or inquisition.

Never since men won Freedom has the challenge to hope been greater. There is the challenge, first, of those who have already destroyed freedom in other lands and who would destroy it here. But there is also the challenge of those who say the only way to keep the light flickering here is to force us to live in the inquisitor's twilight of fear. Freedom cannot live in either twilight or darkness.

It is the Canadian heritage to impart to others that Freedom is not a constant and that it does not necessarily mean the same thing to all men. It is our experience that to be free means respecting and defending the differences, even more strongly than we defend likenesses.

To safeguard the Canadian heritage he must know, first, what his heritage is and, knowing, accept the responsibilities with pride and in humility.

"HOW ABOUT A SOUVENIR HAT TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE?"

Name of Bormann Crops Up In Hunt For War Criminals

BONN (Reuters) — Officials behind West Germany's drive to bring Nazi war criminals to justice, a drive gathering momentum in recent years, repeatedly come across the name of one man—Martin Bormann.

Like the elusive Loch Ness monster, Hitler's bulgy pasty-faced deputy, described by the Fuehrer in his last testament as "my most faithful party comrade," hits the headlines of the world's press at regular intervals.

Dr. Fritz Bauer, Frankfurt prosecutor general, former inmate of a Jewish concentration camp and a key figure in the hunt for wanted Nazis, now claims he has sufficient evidence to prove Bormann almost certainly survived the last days of the war and is hiding in South America.

Bauer says he is almost convinced Bormann found asylum in Paraguay, where the notorious former Auschwitz death camp doctor, Joseph Mengele, also has been reported to be in hiding.

MADE BURIAL CLAIM

Interest in Bormann reached a new peak last summer when a Czechoslovak farmer, who headed a burial squad in Berlin after the collapse of the Third Reich in 1945, claimed he had helped bury Bormann.

The East Germans later reported the grave had been opened and found to yield Bormann's remains.

Almost from the moment of his disappearance there were doubts that Bormann perished when he and a few other Nazis who remained with Hitler in his bunker to the end made a desperate dash for freedom under Russian machine-gun fire May 2, 1945, two days after the Fuehrer's suicide.

Erich Kempka, Hitler's driver, told the Nuremberg war crimes tribunal in 1946 he believed Bormann died when a German tank exploded next to him on Berlin's Weidendammer Bridge.

SENTENCED TO DIE

The tribunal nevertheless sentenced Bormann to death in his absence.

Later, first a former state secretary and a former Hitler Youth leader claimed they saw Bormann alive after the tank explosion.

Only four months after the capitulation of Nazi Germany, a voice broadcasting over a secret radio station, heard in Stockholm, was said to have been Bormann's.

Bormann soon was reported to be in various parts of Germany. Later it was said he had escaped to Argentina in a submarine.

marine. In 1947, someone claimed to have seen him in Egypt.

In the years that followed he was hunted in Austria and the United States, and was suspected of being in southwest Africa, Chile and Spain.

In 1952, Bormann was reported in Tangiers and in Moscow. In 1953, he was said to have died in Italy. In 1960, news of his death came from Argentina. From 1960 to 1962, in Germany, three men were arrested as Bormann but all were released.

A Spaniard called Alcazar said in 1962 he had helped Bormann escape to South America and had met him again in Ecuador in 1958.

Last February, Bormann was hunted by police in Peru, while a London bank messenger claimed that he had seen him in Tenerife, Canary Islands, seven years ago.

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Ornaments and tools from what is believed to be a 3,000-year-old grave discovered recently near here were put on display in the Chatham-Kent Museum.

The find was made by Niel Copley of Chatham, Glen E. Meredith of Thamesville, and Harry Bosveld of the University of Windsor. The discovery included a shell pendant, beads rolled out of strips of copper, and a copper adze.

PIONEER'S VIEW

Sir: As I cannot be present at the annual convention of the B.C. Fruit Growers this year, I would like to say at this time that I entirely agree with the letter from your correspondent, Mr. Hansford, which appeared in your issue of Dec. 8.

I am not going to express any opinion on the present controversy with regard to the position of the general manager of the B.C. Tree Fruits because in recent years I have not been in close touch with our organization. But let us for a moment consider the past. Ever since I cleared the forest for my orchard, some 34 years ago, I have always followed, with great interest, the many vicissitudes of the fruit industry, and in looking back down the years since Mr. Walrod came to us, I find that I always had complete confidence in him and realized from time to time how much this valuable man had accomplished for the growers.

To cast him aside now because we have had one bad year would indeed be not only a very backward movement but a great loss to our industry. Surely the

VICTORIA MERRY-GO-ROUND

Arctic Shock For Capital

By JAMES E. KENNEDY

VICTORIA—Here we are at Christmas once more, and the first four years of the 1960's are ended.

Victorians—the natives, that is—received a shock the week before this Christmas when the thermometer dropped to seven below. It was, believe me, awful, simply awful. And making this matter much worse were those hordes of people from the Prairies who rubbed their hands and said "why, it's just like home—'til you wake up you natives." This was adding insult to injury. If those Prairie people like that kind of weather why did they not remain on the Prairies?

You know, if only we had the year-round temperate of San Francisco this would be the most beautiful place in all the world, perhaps especially at Christmas.

Your capital city, so long so dreary in winter, has suddenly blossomed forth, and the lights at night are spectacular beyond words. I wish all of you, in the far-flung regions of British Columbia, could pay a visit at Christmas time and see how brilliant we have become.

First and foremost are the Legislative Buildings, famous for their tiny, countless lights which have been photographed by people from all over the world.

The holy trees are aglow in the gardens of the Empress Hotel, and giant redwoods blaze in color in the grounds of the Legislative Buildings, and at the main gate to Government House. The fountain spouts in color in Legislative Square, and in Victoria's splendid Civic Square, new this year, Ancient turned Craigheroch Castle is floodlit, and lights gleam in the modern mansions from the top of the Law Courts building. And lately new apartment buildings are all lit up, Hollywood style, with at first appeared native Victorians, but now they have come to like the rainbow hues that outline these buildings by night.

In Beacon Hill Park Christmas lights in the fir trees gleam on the waters of Gossage Lake. When the weather is clear we can look across to miles of salt water and see the lights of Port Angeles, our nearest American neighbor, so much closer to us than it is.

The politicians have become quiet, and are wishing each other well, and meaning it, though not in a political way. Premier Bennett has gone home to Kelowna, there to play the role of country squire, tending his grandchildren on his farm, and I am sure he will then be dreaming of his return to the seat of government.

I'd like to wish all of you who may happen to read this a very pleasant, and hot, festive Christmas and New Year, and a 1965 that will bring you many blessings and a courage to face up to any hard blows that may come your way.

Mother Marie Marguerite d'Youville, founder of the Grey Nuns, died 193 years ago today—in 1771. Born in 1761 near Montreal, she was educated at the Ursuline Convent, Quebec. She married and went to live in Montreal, where the couple's two sons became priests. At the death of her husband in 1790 she began to devote herself to charity. In 1797 she was joined by three other Montreal widows, and the four chose to wear grey garments which later became a mark of respect. Mother d'Youville founded the order of the Grey Nuns in 1815. She was declared venerable in 1890 and first steps in her beatification were taken in 1955.

1783 — George Washington gave up his commission as general and commander-in-chief of the American Continental Army.

1843 — Russia announced the firing-squad executions of Lavrenty Beria and six of his police aides.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1914—the northern Polish community of Mława was recaptured by Germans who made further advances; Austrian reverses were reported in southern Galicia and the Carpathian Mountains; German troops forced the retirement of the Portuguese in Angola, Portuguese West Africa.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1939—the U.S. and 20 other American republics protested French, British and German activities in their territorial waters; the Red Army admitted a lightning blow to destroy Finland was unlikely; the Finnish high command reported more victories.

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Young Liberal Federation rejected a proposal for the establishment of a Siberian-style prison for Canada's northland.

A motion presented to the federation's convention here had called for "a system of penal colonies in the northern part of Quebec . . . thus permitting a more adequate rehabilitation of our hard-core repeaters."

Fast Route South?

Any Kelownians driving south? Well, come February there will be.

And these people may be interested in a report in the Wenatchee World that because of new construction, it is now possible to drive from Wenatchee to Olympia in three hours, an hour shorter than formerly.

The Wenatchee World points out that three time-saving sections have been opened this year. First was the four-lane stretch from Cle Elum to Easton. It removed a 14-mile bottleneck.

Last week the Echo Lake cutoff was opened. It is a direct connection between North Bend and Tacoma, completely eliminating the need to go past Issaquah to Lake Washington and down the east side of the lake past Renton. The new road cuts off four miles west of North Bend, goes past Auburn and connects with U.S. 99 a few miles north of Tacoma.

A third cut-off has been opened in recent weeks without publicity. It is a section of U.S. 99—the freeway—that now carries traffic directly into downtown Tacoma, eliminating the slow access over the narrow Puyallup River bridge. Now only a mile or so of freeway remains to be completed.

The Wenatchee paper comments on one of the "striking things" about the Echo Lake highway. This is a passing lane on the hills, such as we have had in this province for years. One would infer that the third passing lane is an innovation in Washington.

Heading south and want to get in warmer coastal weather as soon as possible? The Blewett-Snoqualmie-Echo Lake route might be the answer.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Cancer Beaten If Caught Early

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner: I wish you could answer my problem soon, as I am worrying a great deal.

After an operation for cancer and a follow-up test which was negative, can one consider herself cured? How often should a test be made? And is it possible for cancer to spread to another area without being known?—MRS. A.N.

From the little you tell me, I would say that you are worrying needlessly. Perhaps the following explanation will help you. Almost all cancers do start in a single spot. In the early stages they are of microscopic size. They grow gradually until they are big enough to create symptoms: lumps, painless sores, bleeding, etc.

Eventually, if allowed to keep growing, a cancer will reach an invasive stage, meaning that it spreads into adjoining tissue. And finally, some of the cells break loose and begin to range through the body indiscriminately. Sometimes these cells are disposed of by the body without doing damage. But some of them may lodge in another organ and a new cancer begins to grow.

This process of moving to another area is called metastasis, and such cancers then are called metastatic cancers.

Thus if a cancer is detected in the early or intermediate stages, and is entirely removed, the result is a cure. That is why so much emphasis is made on early diagnosis and having your doctor examine, at once, any sign that even remotely MIGHT mean cancer.

If, in the operation, not quite all of the cancer is removed, then the remainder can keep on growing. To prevent this danger, segments of healthy tissue are removed from all sides of the original cancer.

Once the process of metastasis—or indiscriminate spreading—has begun it may be too late. Some of the wandering cells can be expected to start new cancers in one place or another.

Now let's apply this to your case. You had surgery, a follow-up study and no sign of cancer was found. You do not say how long ago this took place, nor where the original cancer was, and these factors would have some bearing on my answer. Therefore, your best course is to consult your surgeon.

For statistical purposes, a patient is "cured" if there is no sign of the disease after five years.

Many, many thousands have been cured of cancer and have passed this "five-year requirement." But actually, of course, it didn't take five years to cure them; they were cured as soon as the operation was over. The five-year wait is just a means of being statistically positive that the whole cancer was removed, and that no metastasis had gone unrecognized.

Yes, I think you can consider yourself cured, but the disease is so dangerous that every reasonable precaution should be taken. Have a checkup as long as your doctor indicates that you should do so.

Dear Dr. Molner: My friends claim that caffeine-free coffee is just as hard on the nerves as the ordinary type. Is this true?—J.E.

Let your friends' advice go in one ear and out of the other. They are misinformed. The reason coffee bothers the nerves of some people is because the caffeine, a powerful stimulant, is at work. Remove the caffeine and you avoid this extra stimulation.

NOTE TO MRS. A.N.: No, antibiotics will not prevent hay fever.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

PIONEER'S VIEW

Sir: As I cannot be present at the annual convention of the B.C. Fruit Growers this year, I would like to say at this time that I entirely agree with the letter from your correspondent, Mr. Hansford, which appeared in your issue of Dec. 8.

I am not going to express any opinion on the present controversy with regard to the position of the general manager of the B.C. Tree Fruits because in recent years I have not been in close touch with our organization. But let us for a moment consider the past. Ever since I cleared the forest for my orchard, some 34 years ago, I have always followed, with great interest, the many vicissitudes of the fruit industry, and in looking back down the years since Mr. Walrod came to us, I find that I always had complete confidence in him and realized from time to time how much this valuable man had accomplished for the growers.

To cast him aside now because we have had one bad year would indeed be not only a very backward movement but a great loss to our industry. Surely the amount of knowledge the general manager has accumulated in the years he has been associated with the industry is of great value to us all and there is also the obvious advantage to be derived from his being so well known to all those who are in any way connected with the commercial side of our business.

The idea put forward by some that we should obtain a new manager from outside the fruit industry and who would consequently be completely unfamiliar with the many ramifications of our business does not make sense to me at all.

The Royal Commission conducted by Dr. McPhee enquiring into the fruit industry a few years ago had a very high opinion of Mr. Walrod and said so, and I do not think that one bad year accompanied by the usual following of disgruntled growers should be sufficient cause to stampede these people into demanding drastic changes in the management of the B.C. Tree Fruits.

Everyone connected with the industry in Canada knows that the growing season in 1964 was a most unfavorable one for the production of high quality fruit in British Columbia. The British Columbia fruit grower, better than anyone else, should realize that poor climatic conditions produce poor quality fruit from which one can expect low financial returns, but these can hardly be considered the fault of our staff.

With regard to "Run-Type Products Limited," it is now many years since the directors of the Kelowna Growers Exchange purchased the failing "Modern Foods" organization who at that time employed as their chemist Mr. Walrod. And let us remember that from this very small beginning our general manager has built up our by-products plant into the successful and vast organization that it is today.

I think it would be well if the present disgruntled growers would forget the past year, leave the details of any reorganization to the executive of the BCFGA and confine their energies to trying to grow better fruit rather than stirring up all this trouble which is published from coast to coast and can only bring harm to our industry.

Yours truly,

ANN LANDERS

Every Child Needs Annual Check-Up

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high school senior writing this letter in the hope that it will be read by my neighbor, the mother of a two-year-old child.

The little girl weighs 60 pounds and wears size 14 pants. This summer that child, in her red striped bathing suit, looked like a beach ball with legs.

I've watched the mother feed her and the mound of potatoes on the girl's plate looks like Mt. Wilson. When she stops eating, the mother shovels in more food.

This is an unhappy youngster if I ever saw one. She cries over nothing and rarely smiles. She was a very slow walker—probably because she couldn't drag her fat bottom around.

I've hinted that the youngster should be taken to a doctor for a check-up but the mother laughs and says, "Lord love her, she is just chubby."

Will you comment, please?

—CONCERNED

Dear Concerned: In the old days a fat child was thought to be a healthy child. We know now that this is not necessarily true.

Every child fat or thin, should be taken to a pediatrician for a check-up annually. Routine check-ups have turned up diabetes, rheumatic heart diseases and other illnesses which, when diagnosed early, are far less dangerous.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 17-year-old son, Jack, is a poor student because he refuses to apply himself. He is one year behind in school but it doesn't bother him.

Lucy, the girl with whom Jack has been going steady with for over a year, is also a poor student. To listen to her talk you'd think she was in the sixth grade although she is a Turkey raffle books were being turned in, and the draw for the 20 pound Christmas turkey and the 10 pound ham took place on Tuesday, December 22 at the school.

Arrangements were made for Santa Claus to visit the children on the last day of school, and it was decided to go ahead with the making of a recipe book early in January. All parents will be asked to contribute their favourite recipes to be compiled into a book which will be sold to parents and friends.

Following the business meeting Mrs. C. Johnson gave a very interesting demonstration on the making of Christmas wreaths and centerpieces, and a finished wreath was awarded as a door prize.

Arrangements were made for Santa Claus to visit the children on the last day of school, and it was decided to go ahead with the making of a recipe book early in January. All parents will be asked to contribute their favourite recipes to be compiled into a book which will be sold to parents and friends.

Following the business meeting Mrs. C. Johnson gave a very interesting demonstration on the making of Christmas wreaths and centerpieces, and a finished wreath was awarded as a door prize.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served. There will be no meeting in January.

At the last meeting of the members of the East Kelowna Hall Board it was decided that the annual New Year's party will be held in the Community Hall and the arrangements will be the same as last year.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't believe it. I just can't believe it. Not YOU, Ann Landers!

When Kansas Grandpaw wrote and complained because his wife had a bad habit of appearing at the breakfast table wearing a housecoat over her nightgown—and asked if you approved—yes, said, "I not only approve of it, I DO IT."

What does your husband think about having a lazy wife?

Dear Buster: Yup. It's true. I'll tell you at the breakfast table in a housecoat over my nightgown. I asked my husband what he thought about it 25 years ago and he said, "Why should I object if you wear a housecoat over a nightgown

SEASON'S GREETINGS

FROM YOUR Newspaper Carrier Boy

Newspaper carrier salesmen are wholly deserving of cooperation and understanding from the public they serve. Their job is not always the most pleasant one, especially on stormy days. Nevertheless they are invaluable in trying to find their responsible duties.

Out of the ranks of newboys have come many outstanding Canadians. More than one successful man, in his later years, has given credit to his newboy training for the position he has achieved.

If you appreciate the faithful service of your newboy, sometimes let him know about it. A cheerful, grateful word will send him on his way with a smile that will awaken boyhood's echoes in your own heart.

Out of the ranks of newboys have come many outstanding jobs. We would ask your sympathy and understanding as they try to cope with weather and other problems which make the job more difficult.

Chief Of 100,000 B.C. Indians Protests At CBC Film Shows

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The North American Indian Brotherhood, representing 16,000 British Columbia Indians, has protested to Prime Minister Pearson over the showing of two films on the CBC's national network.

The brotherhood said both shows, aired Nov. 25, were insulting and unfair to B.C. Indians.

Sleek Fighter Defeats Odds

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—The sleek fighter plane which figured in the story TFX defeated the odds of a 20-to-1 bet on Monday afternoon, though a minor malfunction cut short the maiden flight.

The supersonic F-111, a multi-purpose craft commonly called the F-111, was flown by a 20-year-old test pilot from Carswell Air Force Base and its first performance brought praise from many quarters.

Chickens have been taken to the air force and the navy for whom the supersonic aircraft was designed.

The test was scheduled for 40 minutes but was cut by half because the two-man crew was unable to retract the plane's wing flaps after takeoff.

Pilot Alvin K. Turner, called the malfunction minor and said a second test would come in a week or 10 days.

Paul of Kamloops. "They showed only the worst extremes of a minority of B.C. Indians, and never attempted to balance it by showing the thousands of Indians who live normal lives and are a credit to their communities," Mr. Paul said.

The four-hour film The Fraser showed drunken Indians staggering around or passed out on streets in Williams Lake, B.C., during the annual stampede in the Cariboo area, 130 miles north of here. In the half-hour film Because They Are Different, only slum-type dwelling conditions and the worst possible classroom conditions were shown, he said.

Instead of reflecting the successful business and professional careers of many Indians, said Indians are made to be drunken fools," Mr. Paul said.

The Brotherhood's written protest to the Prime Minister termed both shows "an insult to the dignity and a defamation of the integrity of B.C. Indians."

The Fraser, a CBC production, purported to show the story of communities that are along the banks of the Fraser River because they are different, said Paul.

The National Film Board showed the education and living conditions of B.C. Indians.

Opening lead—six of spades. Some of the great plays you hear about are so far removed from what is generally considered normal that they are referred to as fancy plays. However, when you examine these plays closely, you usually find that they are entirely logical and that the chief reason they are so designated is that they are unusual.

Today's deal features a play which many would class as fancy. We don't know whether the designation is correct, but we do know that the play was correct.

South won the spade lead with the king and had no choice with the king and had no choice but to attack clubs. He led the jack and passed low from dummy. East permitted the jack to win.

Declarer led another club and then had to decide, when West played the nine, whether to finesse again. West had by now played the eight and nine.

It seemed to South that if West had had either the K-8 or K-10-8, he would have covered the jack on the preceding trick. Declarer therefore decided to credit East with the king and accordingly went up with the ace.

He then continued his good work by playing another club from dummy and discarding the ace of spades when East took the club with the king.

This extraordinary play guaranteed the contract beyond the shadow of a doubt. East, on lead, was bound to provide dummy with an entry to cash the clubs, regardless of which suit he returned or how the cards were divided.

Whether East led back a spade, a heart or a diamond, dummy was sure to obtain an entry in the suit that East elected to return.

Note that with any discard except the ace of spades, South would have gone down at least one.

Of course, South's play was highly unusual. And possibly it was also fancy. But whatever the play was, its greatest recommendation was that it was sure to do the job.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW
Certain business or financial situations may arise now that could be confusing, but if you maintain a realistic attitude, you'll come out all right. Be careful in your dealings with emotional persons — especially in the A.M. Influences later in the day will be more congenial.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY
If tomorrow is your birthday, the coming year should provide some excellent opportunities for financial gain and job advancement. As a Capricornian, you are endowed with a lot of ingenuity and fine perception. Harnessing these excellent traits, you should go far.

For instance: In less than a week, you will enter a highly auspicious cycle where finances are concerned and, if in the wake of enthusiasm you don't go overboard in spending during the first two weeks of April, in mid-May or early June, you should be able to rack up good profits by early July.

Other good financial periods: the entire month of September, late October and late November. Job interest will be high during the latter part of April, in late October and early November.

Your personal life will also be governed by generous stars, with romance favored in January, May, late June and late July; travel and social activities during the next month, in July early September and December. A change in home environment may "throw you" momentarily in mid-July but, in the long run, it could prove highly beneficial.

A child born on this day will be extremely ambitious and versatile, but will have to curb tendencies toward envy and jealousy.

Lower Taxes Boost Economy Says Canadian Manufacturers

OTTAWA (CP) — Lower corporate and personal income taxes will promote economic growth and help provide employment in Canada, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said today in a brief to Finance Minister Gordon.

The association said in its annual presentation to the government that the tax cut in the United States a year ago has resulted in higher federal revenues because of increased economic activity.

"In view of the similarity of conditions in the two countries, it is reasonable to conclude that a tax reduction in Canada would have the same result," it said.

Bob Hope Never At Home Now For Family Christmas Day

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's our life, and I'm used to it. I think a lot of people try to fight against the kind of life they have, and they end up making themselves miserable. It's much easier to accept the life you have, and enjoy it."

This was the philosophy of Bob Hope as he faced another Christmas without her husband Bob. While he is entertaining American soldiers in South Vietnam, she will be spending Christmas at their home in North Hollywood.

"Our holiday has pretty much fallen into a routine," Mrs. Hope said. "It's not like other people's, but it has its compensations."

The routine is this: Before his departure overseas, Bob spends a half-day selecting gifts of fruit to send to friends all over the United States. About 10 days before Christmas, he leaves with his troupe. Mrs. Hope completes the shopping, has Christmas Eve dinner with the children. In recent years, eldest son Tony has accompanied Bob.

The stay-at-home Hopes attend midnight mass and in the morning open a few of their gifts. Then they have Christmas dinner with close friends.

One of the happiest youngsters in the Okanagan Valley today is 10-year-old Bonnie McKinnon of Peachland. She won $35 in the Daily Courier Christmas coloring contest December 12. The Courier's back page featured a cut-out puzzle and color contest and Bonnie's entry was judged most artistic and most original. Bonnie and her mother and father came to the Courier office to pick up the cheque early Monday and went off to complete their Christmas shopping a little happier. The Courier thanks all those youngsters who submitted the mountain of entries. Judging was long and difficult.

SHUTTLETALK

By MARY McFADDEN

"There never was such a goose when the king expected such of stuffing issued forth one morning of delight arose all around the board. So on many Christmas Days have we joined in sport with the Grackles and their Tins. In this passage the goose when Dickens described it seemed to take substance and wait upward from the page with delicious aroma. You might have thought the goose the farest of all birds." wrote Dickens

Certainly we of the traditional club appreciate the rarity of the goose, but only for its failed gastronomic appeal. Although many of us probably settle very happily for the slightly less romantic but everlastingly turkey, but also in its feathered state. To us the goose is indeed the farest of birds and so, fortunately, are stately small wing feathers which are used to make the feathered shuttlecock. It could be said that as the goose gives us great entertainment.

At the moment we are using plastic shuttles in the club for the first time in several years and the whole thing seemed that a shipment of the feathered variety has left London and is steaming across the Atlantic as fast as ship can carry them.

I have used plastic shuttles only once before, some years ago, and the ones we are using now are definitely greatly improved. But they still leave much to be desired. They float while the feathered bird drops steadily in a smooth, the plastic shuttle seems to reach the floor, while the other descends in a direct sharp line. To sum it up, the plastic shuttle is a disaster, while the feathered is a bird of action.

Several years ago when I first heard of the periodic shortage of shuttlecocks, my excited questions as to why the feathers of such a common bird should be in short supply received only partially satisfactory answers. The problem continued to simmer in my mind over the years then came to a head rather suddenly last month with the introduction of plastic shuttles. I determined to find the answer and finally did with the help of an obliging craftsman.

I knew that the feathers were imported from countries behind the Iron Curtain. I learned that geese are not raised in western countries for this purpose because the equivalent of one goose equals 16 feathers equals one shuttlecock. Means that the supply of geese sacrifices would far exceed the demand. Finally I found that they can continue to supply the feathers from China and Central Europe, not because these people consume great quantities of geese but because there is no law against the plucking of live birds.

Now we know and we can't tell the SPCA. We could all become goose eaters and have the poor bird from being tortured. They would just be eaten. Indeed, it might be better to experiment again with shuttlecocks made from chicken or turkey feathers. As you can see, the feathers may be light, but the problem is a weighty one.

Having borrowed from Dickens fairly liberally, I must resist at the end this Tins offshoot remark but will instead paraphrase the final description of George and hope that you have as good a Christmas and as good a New Year as this good old city ever knew.

Victoria Counts 3 Quickies To Edge Seals Tuesday Night

VICTORIA (CP) — Victoria at 2-1, but slipped back 3-1 by Maple Leafs scored three goals in the third after a succession of penalties. San Francisco's Charlie Burns scored the first goal seconds after the game started and George Swarbrick put Seals ahead 2-0 before the period ended. Len Haley scored the other Frisco goal in the second.

Victoria got on the board with Milan Marcetic in the second and Steve Wittek, Gordy Redahl and Larry Keenan added third-period goals to give the Leafs the win.

It left them still in the league cellar, but only three points back of the fifth-place Seals in the six-team circuit. Wittek got the Leafs started early in the third with a drive down right side and before swinging into the trouble on crossing the San Francisco baseline. He beat defenceman Jean-Marc Picard with a neat shift and beat goalie Bob Perreault with a fast shot. Leafs evened up the score 3-3 on a goal by right winger Gordie Redahl who flicked a high left-handed shot to the far side and past goalie Perreault. Keenan, taking a pass from goaltender Al Mullar, broke down centre ice with four Seals back. They played him casually and he swung around Gary Dornhoefer to catch Perreault with a quick shot for the winning goal.

Four Ex-Argos Play Lead Roles In Saturday's AFL Final Clash

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — It may have started some American Football League fans when Chuck Gifford left Sunday but it was no surprise to his old employers in Buffalo.

The big feedback, who is generally supposed to earn his pay by breaking AFL rushing records, helped Buffalo Bills win the Eastern Division title Sunday when his robust interception kept Boston Patriots' defensive line from intercepting quarterback Jack Kemp's pass and game.

His performance evoked nostalgia among Toronto Argonaut supporters who remember the happy days when Chuck and everything but carry the water bucket for the Eastern Division conference. The Argos haven't been out of the CFL since he traveled south in 1962.

Saturday's AFL final between the Bills and San Diego Chargers at Buffalo will be a homecoming for Buffalo. Four of the Argos have been out of the CFL since he traveled south in 1962.

No Favorite Patsy Hull's Philosophy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Everyone agrees Bobby Hull is hard on goalkeepers, but no one can accuse him of playing favorites—at least, not this season.

The muscular left winger has scored 28 times in 28 games but not at the expense of any particular goalkeeper. He has scored one goal a game against each of his team's five opponents in the National Hockey League.

An official breakdown issued Tuesday by the NHL shows the Chicago All-Star has seven goals in seven games against Boston Bruins, six goals in six games against Montreal Canadiens, and five goals in five games against Detroit Red Wings, New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Many high scorers of the NHL have found some teams easier to score against than others, and this used to be true for Bobby.

Detroit Red Wings were the pattern for Maurice "Rocket" Richard, the retired Canadian.

SADLY SIGNS NEW PACT HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats Tuesday signed head coach Ralph Sarno to a new five-year contract.
